After I graduated college, I would like to apply for jobs in supply chain and logistics fields to get a hand-on experience as well as improve my skills. Not only that I can practice my skills for supply chain and logistic field, I can also be able to use those skills for other jobs. These are the transferrable skills fostered in the field of logistics and supply chain management such as forecasting, workflow optimization, general management, and financial planning. Taking advantage of the new knowledge as well as having financial stable, I would apply to get my master's degree in supply chain management to go further with my education. I believe that the operational management chain provides a huge impact on the business around the world so I would like to take opportunities to grow in the business world as well as meeting new people with the believe in determination, persistence and patience characteristic are the strengths. I can see myself working or applying for an international company because working in a supply chain environment will be exposed to may partners both at home and abroad, strength good relationships and gain more experience from developed economics. Gradually, I will be able to work independently, have the opportunity to find new positions, learn more foreign languages to work in foreign companies or even set foot in new lands to build my own career. Every retail organization has a supply chain, so it is an area where there are multiple opportunities for me to grow.
