Essay: What are your professional aspirations and goals for the next five years?

I found myself greatly interested in completing my master's and PhD in the business field. I have extremely enjoyed several business courses I took such as supply chain decision making, Accounting, and finance. These courses helped me shape a small vision of my future goals and gain a vital understanding of my abilities. It is my greatest desire to become a part of this rapidly moving community, and in order to achieve that, I realized that I have to expand my knowledge in my desired field. My long-term goal is to own my own company in logistic field. Considering the strong relationship between professors and tutoring I found myself interested to work as a supply chain tutor in college of business to tutor the fundamentals in Supply Chain courses by engaging and simplifying the concepts of the course to students to make them aware and understand the concepts and applications. Being involved in this tutoring group would allow me to expand my knowledge and develop several skills in analyzing different knowledge in business. That is exactly why I seek to study at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln: I want to play a big role in improving this discipline, both here in the United States, and in my country, Oman.

Important: I verify all information provided in this application is truthful and accurate. I understand if any of the afore-said information is not accurate or truthful it will void my eligibility to participate in STAFDA's San Diego Convention & Trade Show.
