-Over-

Over the next five years, I have already begun to set some goals for myself to achieve that will work towards setting up the kind of life I want to live. The first and most important goal I have set for myself is to find myself in a position with a company where I feel the work I do is valued and that the company will empower me to continue to grow and progress within the company. Another goal I have set for my professional career is to continuously grow as a leader. I will accomplish this goal by looking to put myself in more leadership positions as well as take leadership trainings and courses to help develop and refine the skills necessary to be an effective leader. Lastly, I have set a goal to learn how to effectively spend, save, and invest my money. I currently do not have a lot of knowledge regarding investing, but I know the importance of being smart with the money you make. I will do a lot of research online regarding this topic as well as talking with professionals like financial advisors to get their insight on what they feel would be the best plan for me.
